

Invitation to Quote External Evaluation of the Smiles for Miles Base Project (2024-2027)

1. Introduction

The Children, Young People and Families' Consortium (CYPF Consortium) is seeking an external evaluator for the Smiles for Miles Base Project, a National Lottery-funded initiative being delivered in Rotherham from 1st April 2024 to 31st March 2027. The evaluation will start during the first year of the project and help shape future delivery and funding decisions in year 2, year 3 and beyond.

We are looking to engage an experienced evaluator who can effectively capture the project's impact, particularly focusing on its joint-consortia approach to improving outcomes for children, young people, and their families.

2. Project Overview

The Smiles for Miles (SFM) Project strapline is "The sky's the limit for children and young people with the right basket of support and provision."

The SFM Project is a joint-consortia project which aims to offer increased youth provision for 1500 children and young people in Rotherham, delivering 2500 activities and support interventions over a three-year period. This 3-year project, which started 1st April 2024 and is due to end on 31st March 2027 follows the success of a 2-year funded project of the same name which between 2021-2023 delivered 2799 activities, attracting over 20,000 attendances from 2497 young people across Rotherham.

Delivered in partnership with children and young people, the project is all about coproduction, pooling information, skills, strengths and expertise to support them to reach their goals, as defined by them and lead the direction of the project based on their articulation of need and what works for them.

Priorities for the project are around early intervention, improving spaces and places that matter to communities, bringing people together and building strong relationships in and across communities.

10 Voluntary and Community Sector (VCS) organisations who are members of the well-established Children, Young People and Families Consortium (Est.2003) are delivering the project, with the CYPF Consortium as the lead organisation responsible for monitoring delivery, outcomes and expenditure.

3. Project Delivery and Expected Outcomes

Three 'main bases' and two 'satellite bases' will offer extended youth work provision and outreach / detached provision. Young people will have access to a trusted adult via these bases who will support them to navigate support and access opportunities available from the 'basket of support and provision' provided by the remaining 5 delivery partners.

The 'basket of support and provision' will bring different young people together to spend time together doing activities they enjoy as well as accessing services which complement their articulation of activity which they need and would like to receive, such as;

- Self–help / wellness support
- Mental health and wellbeing support
- Personal development and confidence building sessions
- Outdoor activities / experience
- Creative and arts based activities

A flexible element to the project budget is also embedded to meet unanticipated service need and respond to the voice and influence of young people regarding activities and support that they need or would like to "have a go at".

This way of delivering youth provision will equip children and young people with the necessary tools in environments which they are familiar with and comfortable in, in order to;

- Increase health and wellbeing
- Increase economic achievement
- Improve personal enjoyment and development
- improve community and societal contribution
- Increase safety and support

A project of this scale spanning 3 years will give us the necessary time to work with wider partners to demonstrate the impact of Smiles for Miles and further develop partnerships, alliances and networks to continue to work collaboratively and promote genuine leadership.

We will have developed systems and practice than can be replicated in other areas and evidence of impact to substantiate and sustain the model, with the voices of children and young people, further strengthening the approach.

By adopting a collaborative approach to delivery, we will also enable the building of networks and relationships between groups of young people and organisations which will increase their life chances and provide organisations with the opportunity to work alongside each other in order to share and develop their skills, practice and understanding. Thus, enhancing their services and support, and the way these are accessed by children and young people.

5. Project Evaluation Outline

The external evaluator will use direct and indirect data collection methods and work with the project team and project delivery partner organisations to develop an appropriate evaluation framework. The methodology should minimally include:

- Interviews with key stakeholders; the Project Co-ordinator, the Children, Young People and Families Consortium Strategic Co-ordinator, the Director of Services (Infrastructure), and representatives from each delivery partner.
- Capturing the views of a large sample of project beneficiaries and their families.
- Gathering feedback from professionals referring into the project.
- Any other methods necessary to demonstrate the impact of the consortia approach and make recommendations for future project delivery and funding.

An impact framework has already been developed as part of the project, and the evaluator will work with partner organisations to measure both qualitative and quantitative outcomes, offering feedback and guidance on the best possible means of demonstrating the impact of each delivery component and the collaborative nature of delivery as a whole. The evaluation should capture the effectiveness of the project's combination of main and satellite bases, supported by a diverse basket of provisions, and assess its impact on young people's well-being, community involvement, and access to support services (see provision map below).

The evaluation should also seek, where possible, to assess how the Children, Young People and Families Consortium (www.cypfconsortium.org.uk) as a wider network of VCS organisations (from which the SFM delivery partnership was formed) has and is able to support the effective delivery and coordination of joined-up services which improve outcomes for children, young people and their families.
